Proverbs 31:25-26

RE-IMAGINING
INTER-GENERATIONAL CHRISTIAN
VALUES AND BELIEFS

Reimagineigc.org

The goal of this Intergenerational Kingdom Challenge is to intentionally strengthen relationships across generations, deepen our connection with God through Jesus Christ, and cultivate a church culture rooted in honor, service, and love. Throughout May, participants are encouraged to engage in meaningful activities that reflect the biblical principles of unity, mentorship, and godly leadership. This challenge is designed to be flexible, so churches, families, and individuals may participate in whole or in part, based on their capacity and context. Responses and participation will be acknowledged and awarded based on both the number of activities completed and the depth, creativity, and spiritual impact demonstrated.

Grounded in Ecclesiastes 4:9-10, we are reminded that we are stronger together, called to lift one another, build trust, and walk in companionship. This reflects not only our relationships with one another, but also our reliance on God and our daily walk with Jesus Christ, who sustains and restores us when we fall.

As we honor mothers in May, we also look to Proverbs 31:25-26, which teaches us what it means to be clothed with strength and honor, living in wisdom, dignity, and reverence before God. These scriptures challenge us to recognize and celebrate those who embody godly character, and to strive to reflect Christ in our own lives and relationships.

Participants are encouraged to reflect on questions such as:

- What does companionship teach us about trust and our relationship with Christ?
- What are the rewards of godly relationships?
- What does it truly mean to be clothed in strength and honor, and how do we recognize it in others?

Ultimately, this challenge is not just about activities; it is about transformation, connection, and living out the Word of God in practical and visible ways.

Suggested Environments for Engagement & Honor

To create meaningful, memorable experiences, participants are encouraged to engage in activities in environments that foster connection, honor, and fellowship across generations. Some suggested settings include:

- Intergenerational Breakfast or Luncheon (Church-Sponsored):
- Bring together youth, adults, and seniors to share a meal, testimonies, and words of encouragement.
- Family Meals at Home:
- Designate a special time where families intentionally gather, pray, and honor mothers, caregivers, fathers, or children.
- Small Group or Ministry Gatherings:
- Encourage ministries to host their own fellowship moments centered on honoring and connecting.
- Recognition Moments During Worship Service:
- Highlight caregivers, spiritual mothers/fathers, and youth publicly.

Participants are encouraged to document their experiences by submitting pictures, short reflections, or even receipts from their gatherings as a testimony of participation and impact.
